Gas Air-Conditioning Used In Balanced Power Homes

The fact that gas air conditioning is more versatile today than ever before in its history is proving a valuable asset to builders using the Balanced Power Homes concept.

Builders of Balanced Power homes have more variety of size and design available to them than at any time since residential and small commercial gas air conditioning made its debut after World War II, according to G. M. Babbe, Division Manager of the Southern California Gas Company here.

According to Babbe, gas air conditioning thus points up the value of the Balanced Power home where modern, automatic gas equipment handles the jobs it can do with most ease, speed and economy—jobs such as cooking, air conditioning, water heating and clothes drying.

On addition, he noted, the Balanced Power Home concept also includes adequate wiring for modern lighting, furnace fans, garbage disposers and dishwashers, plus plenty of outlets for such plug-in appliances as television sets, radios, hi-fi equipment, mixers and toasters.

VALUE

EXAMPLE

"The variety, as well as the efficiency and economy of gas air conditioning, make it an excellent example of the Balanced Power concept of doing each household job with the energy source that can do it most efficiently, and at lowest cost," Babbe said.

Emphasizing the availability of a gas air conditioner for any size and type of home, Babbe pointed to one leading manufacturer of small and medium-tonnage gas-fired absorption air conditioning equipment who now has units in a wide range of sizes.

"Moreover," Babbe said, "units have been developed that can discharge conditioned air downward into perimeter or similar systems and provide either year-around climate control or cooling only."

"These units can be installed outdoors or fitted into any convenient interior location, and it is also new possible to "zone" this gas air conditioning—or split up a system into individual areas for optimum flexibility of control and operating economy," he continued.

Dance Festival

All parents of children attending 223 Street School are cordially invited to the annual dance festival on Monday, May 29. The dance festival will start at 1 p.m. on the school playground. A Spanish theme will prevail this year.

Redmon; Boice Commencement Speakers

According to an announcement made by President Kenneth A. Stewart, of Pacific Bible Seminary, 4835 East Anaheim St., Long Beach, commencement week activities will begin on Sunday, June 4, with Baccalaureate Exercises held in the McCall Chapel, on campus. Dr. William S. Boice, minister of the First Christian Church, Phoenix, Arizona, will be the Baccalaureate Speaker. Also on the program will be Dr. Joseph M. Applegate, for thirty years minister of Crenshaw Christian Church, Inglewood; Mr. Alger Fitch, minister of Parkcrest Church of Christ, Long Beach.

An imitation bull fight will be presented, and a student king and student queen will be crowned. In keeping with the theme a forty minute cartoon will be shown in the school auditorium.

Chile and beans, hot dogs, cupcakes, chleburgers, and coffee will be sold by PTA members. A general store will also be set up on the playground. Children attending 223 Street School may purchase five and ten cent tickets from their teachers all this week. Six ticket booths will be set up on the playground to accommodate everyone attending the festival. Dart, balloon, bean bag, and fishing game booths will be managed by PTA members.

Common Cold

"Common" is the right word for that drippy, hawking, aching plague of mankind—the cold. Year after year, it remains his most common ailment. While usually more annoying than dangerous in itself, it can quickly develop into a severe illness.

Colds are part of a group of upper respiratory diseases which are also very expensive to man. The medical bill alone for these ailments runs to some three billion dollars a year. Add time and production lost through absence, figured at another two million dollars, and the total bill comes to around five billion dollars a year.

Despite marvelous advances elsewhere, modern medicine has made little progress against the cold. The main trouble is that the viruses which cause colds have so far escaped detection by medical scientists, except possibly for the common cold workers at Mill Hill, London, England. This problem must be solved before any further progress can be expected.

Home Relief

The total number of general home relief recipients showed a substantial seasonal decrease, falling by 39,900 to 95,600 in April. However, this was 39 percent greater than in April 1960. The general home relief recipient rate was 6.5 per thousand population under age 165 in April 1961 and 4.8 in April 1960.

Total expenditures for general home relief were $2.0 million during April. This was about $423,100 less than in March, but $283,900 more than in April 1960.

Requests for assistance in general home relief decreased by 36 percent to 15,710 in April. This total represented a 37 percent increase over the April 1960 figure.

Seasonal Employment

Seasonal employment upswing was reflected in a decrease in the county general relief rolls during April, but the number of persons on general aid still stood at 39 percent above a year ago.

This was the key to a monthly report issued by State Social Welfare Director J. M. Wedemeyer on the current trends in California's social welfare programs.
